Excerpt from War Sec's file No 91-43 dated (by no 1409/4)

Orders prohibiting the slaughter and movement for purposes of slaughter of cattle of certain categories have been issued. Similar orders have also been issued in the Civil and Military Station.

(2) The Minister of Local Self Government and Public Health was pleased to instruct that some rules should be framed whereby some definite officers should be authorized to see that only cattle outside the prohibited categories are allowed to be slaughtered and the slaughter of the rest effectively prevented. The measure was mostly in military slaughter houses and so far as these are concerned, the good offices of the military authorities have been secured and the authorities have issued suitable instructions to their Contractors. It is hoped that no cattle of the prohibited degree will be allowed to be slaughtered for military purposes. It will, however, be difficult for our Government Officers to do anything in regard to these slaughter houses. At best, our officers (Police and Veterinary) can be on the look out and watch bear about the entrance to military camps and try to seize the cattle falling within the prohibited category, which are intended for transport to military camps for butchery.

(3) So far as the State proper is concerned, the two City Municipalities have framed bye-laws under section 51 (a) of the City Municipalities Act for the regulation and inspection of slaughter houses within their municipal limits. These bye-laws provide for the regulation of slaughter of animals in the municipal slaughter houses for sale and private consumption, subject to certain conditions and for the grant of permits to slaughter animals (Sheep and Goats) during festivals etc and for prosecution for slaughter for sale at places other than municipal slaughter houses without the previous permission of the Presidents of the municipalities. These bye-laws also provide for the slaughter of animals only after the latter are inspected and passed by the Veterinary Inspectors for slaughter purposes. In view of the recent orders, these Inspectors may be further instructed to keep the latest orders also in-mind and prevent the slaughter of cattle of the prohibited category and take action to prosecute such persons as may be bringing the latter class of animals for purposes of slaughter.

4) As regards the town areas, the Mysore Town Municipalities Act, 1933, has empowered the town councils to make similar bye-laws under section 48. Most of the Town Municipal Councils have framed bye-laws under this section. But these Bye-laws relate mostly to slaughter houses for slaughter of sheep and goats and no bye-laws have been made for slaughter houses for the Bovine Species. In regard to minor municipal areas, Government themselves can make ^{rules} for the regulation and inspection of slaughter houses (Vide Section 106, 2(f) of Act IX of 1933).

5) As regards areas (outside non-municipal areas), the District Boards have jurisdiction to make bye-laws for the regulation and inspection etc of slaughter houses (Vide section 57 of the District Board's Act). It is understood however that no bye-laws have been framed in this behalf.

6) Thus except in the two cities and the F G F area there are practically no slaughter houses for cattle of the 'Bovine Species'. The question is as to how, in these circumstances the slaughter of bullocks etc., of the prohibited category can be prevented and the indiscriminate slaughter checked. If there had been slaughter houses all over the State, it would have been possible to keep ^{watch} at these definite places and control the slaughter. In their absence, the only way in which the slaughter could perhaps be regulated would be by insisting on taking out licenses in each and every case in which cattle (other than sheep or goats) are proposed to be slaughtered and to make it an offence to slaughter without such permission. Such a rule could be issued under the Defence of India rules in furtherance of the notification, which has not been issued. The Veterinary Inspectors of the locality may be authorised to grant permits after satisfying themselves that the animal proposed to be slaughtered is outside the prohibited category. In these two cities and the I G F area, the Veterinary Inspectors deputed to the slaughter houses should pass for slaughter only such animals as fall outside the prohibited category, besides conforming to the other conditions prescribed in the bye-laws.
